A thinking routine for distilling the essence and making connections.

Think of the big idea(s) and important theme(s) in what you have just read or seen or heard.

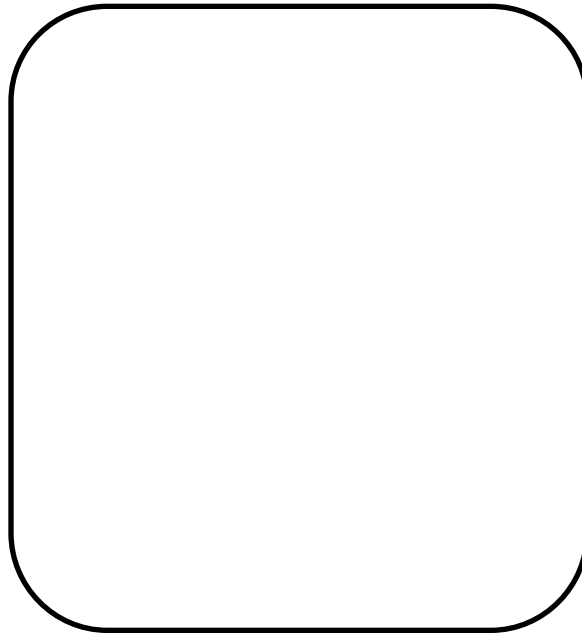

- Choose a color that you think best represents the essence of that idea.
- Create a symbol that you think best represents the essence of that idea.
- Sketch an image that you think best captures the essence of that idea.

Below each box, write a short explanation for why you chose that particular color, symbol, or image.
